

Solution-Focused Brief Therapy

A One Day Advanced Masterclass

with Michael Durrant (Aus)

SFBT

Have you completed some Solution Focused Brief Therapy training in the past?

Maybe you are an experienced Solution-Focused practitioner wanting more?

Ready to take your Solution Focused skills to the next level?

This “follow-up”, or advanced, training will consolidate participants’ skills and familiarity with the Solution-Focused approach. It will take the form of a “masterclass.” The focus will be on working with participants’ actual clinical experiences with the approach, and the emphasis will be on skills practice.

There will be little further didactic component to this training; however, it will be centred around the experiences – positive and negative – participants have had with the Solution-Focused approach in their work. Participants will be given two or three broad questions in advance to assist them to bring to the training real case examples from their work where they have used the approach – both when it has worked and when they have become “stuck”.

Building on participants’ own experiences, the training will help them enhance their Solution-Focused conversations, refine their questions, and help clients describe and reach their preferred future. There will be an emphasis on crafting conversations that build a detailed description of the preferred future (the so-called “SFBT 2.0”) and how to then respond to this. There will be some additional video examples of actual therapy sessions, and participants will be encouraged to observe and analyse the therapists’ use of language in these examples.

This course has been specifically curated for those people who have done the “introductory”, three-day Solution-Focused training with Michael. If you wish to come to this course and have NOT completed the three-day Solution-Focused training with Michael, please email the Compass office with an outline of the Solution-Focused training you have received.

As this is an “advanced” course and will be highly interactive, places are strictly limited.

Stay current, stay confident: advanced SFBT for today’s challenges
